PROGRAMME REPORT

The workshop on Innovation/prototype validation as part of IIC activity for Faculty and students organized by the Institution Innovation Council was conducted on 20-08-2022. Mr. Renjith Ramachandran, Founder and mentor, Startuphunt was the resource person.

The resource person provided a comprehensive overview of the various steps involved in validating a prototype/innovation, emphasizing the importance of quality aspects in prototype design.

The session continued with the detailing of the intricacies of validating a prototype, highlighting key steps from conceptualization to final testing. The resource person elaborated quality aspects in design especially on the essential quality considerations during the prototype design phase, emphasizing the significance of precision and reliability. The resource person also highlighted key concepts, methodologies, and the role of validation in mitigating risks and enhancing the overall success of innovative projects.

The session witnessed active participation from both faculty and students. Participants learned about the various testing methods and evaluation criteria used in prototype validation. The session included discussions on reliability, performance, usability, and compliance testing.

Practical demonstrations and group activities allowed participants to apply the concepts learned. The workshop addressed common challenges in prototype validation, such as resource constraints, time limitations, and unexpected technical issues. The lively discussion enhanced the learning experience, providing practical insights into the challenges and best practices in prototype validation.

Programme Description in detail
